District of North Vancouver issues heavy rainfall warning

North Vancouver, B.C. Due to heavy rainfall, the District of North Vancouver has issued a precautionary advisory for all areas of the District of North Vancouver.

Residents living along creeks and rivers are cautioned that this is a time of elevated risk and residents are advised to exercise due caution and to stay away from the rivers edge, in light of elevated water levels, swift moving currents and bank erosion. Soil on hills is also saturated and there is an elevated risk of debris flow.

Safety for residents is the District's top priority and District officials are actively monitoring rainfall and groundwater levels. Another advisory will be issued as conditions dictate.
